THIS INSTITUTION will hang up its stocking Christmas Eve. It will be filled—indeed it is being filled now but it shall be hung up just as though it were empty. We know quite well what is being put into the stocking. The public is filling it and we are simply looking on and offering encouragement. The contents are composed of an overwhelming trade: the fullest confidence of the people and an appreciation of our prices and merchandise. That's the present that is now being prepared for us.

This will be a great week—a week of tremendous shopping. The store is beautiful—bedecked in evergreen, holly and massive snowballs from which smaller ones suspend. Over the magnificent stairway to the Basement hangs a majestic evergreen, bell almost red with immortelles. Others grace the entrance to the store. The spacious aisles, the daylight effect, and the high ceilings make one feel that, though the store is crowded, there is no jostling—just an animated, surging throng of Christmas shoppers, each one enjoying leisurely buying.

CHRISTMAS UMBRELLAS.

Umbrellas are bought by the hundreds for Christmas. On this occasion a much better umbrella is obtained than one is willing to buy for personal service. The line is a remarkable assemblage of fine and medium makes. Every conceivable handle is shown. These umbrellas are marked at our usual reasonable prices.

CHRISTMAS GLOVES.

A box of gloves is always dear to her heart. A well dressed hand is an index of neatness. The lines which we carry are the very same that are in the greatest demand in the fashion centers. A box of gloves is always acceptable.

Cut Glass at Half Prices is a strong argument in favor of saving money. It is high grade—or we would tell you so. The reason for the astonishing reduction right here at Christmas times is simply because it is too difficult to sell in the Basement. For the holiday season we have removed the line to the center of the store on the first floor, where opportunity is given to display it to the best advantage.

For the same reasons quadruple Silverware is cut one-half.
